CLEANSE, REST AND GET MOVING

Exposure to toxins such as heavy metals, pesticides, chemicals, food additives and pollutants present in air, water and food, as well as toxins generated by microbes (e.g. yeasts, bacteria, parasites) are unavoidable in today's modern lives. According to the WHO the production & use of chemicals continues to grow worldwide and it is likely to result in a greater negative effect on health. However we can minimise exposure where possible and support our own detoxification processes to avoid a build up of chemicals that can leave you feeling generally unwell.

Cleansing your insides can be simple, safe and effective if done correctly and can improve energy levels, digestion, skin & immune health as well as general wellbeing.

A cleansing program usually incorporates herbs and nutrients to help remove & release toxins through the different elimination channels. Dietary and lifestyle adjustments are also a vital part in this process. To get the best results consult your qualified & professional practitioner/consultant.
